

Sustainable Transition Leaders Breakfast Series

The shift to a low carbon, sustainable future is demanding a new cohort of ‘transition leaders’ – leaders with an understanding of the scale of the change required, an appreciation for the systemic forces hindering this transition and the uncertainty around how these might play out.

Transition leaders not only need to take a long-term view but also navigate an inherently uncertain path ahead.

This series gives you the space to consider the opportunity for your business and collaborate with peers to overcome the challenges to get there.

Workshop #1: Ambition, Barriers & Catalysts for Change Tuesday 12 November 7:30am-9:30am	To kick things off, we will look at the big picture to understand your organisation’s sustainability ambition and current maturity . What are the barriers preventing or slowing down action? What are the catalysts that will drive transformative change and how could you respond most effectively?
Workshop #2: Adaptive Strategy & Operating Model Tuesday 26 November 7:30am-9:30am	We dive deeper to look at how sustainability can be embedded into your core business strategy and operating model . We’ll look at how existing tools and processes can be used to enable change and how to remain adaptive in a rapidly evolving world.
Workshop #3: Purpose-led Leadership Tuesday 10 December 7:30am-9:30am	Lastly we focus on you as leaders – what mindset are you approaching this work with? What role does purpose play in leadership and change? And what does transformative leadership look like?

By attending this workshop series, you'll gain:

- Greater awareness of the barriers and levers for transformative change in your organisation
- Practical approaches for embedding sustainability across all levels of your operating model
- Leadership skills and frameworks to remain adaptive and resilient through uncertain times
- A supportive space to envision the long-term challenges and opportunities for your organisation
